Ford vows to veto any bills giving federal aid to NYC

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford declared today he will veto any legislation aimed at a federal bailout of New York City, but pledged government help to maintain police and fire protection if the city defaults on its debts.

Ford proposed legislation which would empower federal courts "to preside over an orderly reorganization of New York City's financial affairs — should that become necessary." In a speech to the National Press Club, he sharply criticized the governmental and financial leadership of New York City. He said other cities "have not been luckier than New York; they simply have been better managed."

As threats of default mount for the nation's largest city, pressure has built for federal aid to New York. Ford said responsibility for the problems is being left to the federal government, "unwanted and abandoned by its real parents."

Ford emphasized, however: "I can tell you now that I'm prepared to veto any bill that has as its purpose a federal bailout of New York City to prevent a default."

Ford said in event of default, "the federal government will work with the court to assure that police, fire and other essential services for the protection of life and property in New York are maintained."

Ford was asked following his speech if cash, guarantees or federal troops would be used to provide federal aid to maintain public services.

He said he could "see no loss to the federal government whatsoever" in the federal court supervision plan.

Asked how New York City's situation differed from that of Lockheed Aircraft, which received a massive government loan guarantee, Ford said that in retrospect, it may have been a mistake to give Lockheed its guarantee.

But he also explained that the federal government could maintain more direct supervision over Lockheed than it could over another unit of government.

The proposed legislation would amend the federal bankruptcy laws and would allow New York City, with approval from New York state, to petition the U.S. District Court in New York when and if it is no longer able to pay its debts.

The petition would be accompanied by proposals for "an adjustment" of the city's debts with its creditors. Once those conditions are met, the federal court then would be authorized to accept jurisdiction of the case and there would be an automatic moratorium on suits by creditors so that the essential functions of New York City would not be disrupted.

Ford said the court would be empowered to authorize issuance of new debt certificates for new loans to the city which would be paid out of future revenues before payment to other creditors on existing debt certificates.

Ford said his proposed legislation will not, by itself, put the New York City's affairs in order. A New York City default on its debts now could come as early as Nov. 14 when the next debt payments are scheduled, city and state officials say.

Ford said he is convinced that New York City and New York State can take actions to avoid financial collapse.

"They must either increase revenues or cut expenditures or devise some combination that will bring them to a sound financial position ... if they are taken, New York City will, with the assistance of the legislation I am proposing, be able to restore itself as a fully solvent operation," Ford said.

Ford said his plan would not result in the city's creditors, such as banks and pension funds, being "wiped out." "How much they will be hurt will depend upon the future conduct of the city's leaders," Ford said.

He also said that for the millions of residents of New York, "There may be some temporary inconveniences, but that will be true of any solution that is adopted."

The financial community might experience some temporary difficulties from a default by the city, but the difficulties should not be large or long lasting, Ford added.

"Finally, for the people of the United States, this means that they will not be asked to assume a burden that is not of their own making and should not become their responsibility," Ford said. He said no American should derive comfort or pleasure from New York City's problems, but said the problems must be prevented from spreading to the rest of the nation.

"If we go on spending more than we have, providing more benefits and services than we can pay for, then a day of reckoning will come to Washington and the whole country just as it has to New York ... when that day of reckoning comes, who will bail out the United States of America?" Ford said.

On Tuesday, an administration official said that Ford is offering his plan because "he was concerned he was being pictured as being inhuman and not compassionate enough toward New York City."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., predicted a plan to allow cities to declare bankruptcy would be more likely to win congressional approval than one requiring federal loan guarantees.

Motions for Burke, Dunphy granted

By LENNY INGRASSIA

Two defense motions were granted and two other defense motions filed Tuesday at the conclusion of a hearing in Lee County Court before Circuit Judge James B. Vincent, Galena, assigned to hear voting charges against Jim G. Burke and Herb Dunphy.

Burke, 37, 317 Steele Ave., chairman of the Lee County Democratic Central Committee and president of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, along with Dunphy, 67, 711 Peoria Ave., and Alice Dempsey, 54, 1119 W. Second St., both campaign workers, were named in multi-count indictments charging perjury, solicitation and unlawful observation of voting in connection with absentee ballots cast in the days prior to the April 15 city election.

It was the first hearing in the case for Judge Vincent since his being assigned to the case by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales, who granted an earlier defense motion requesting a change of judges. Circuit Judge John Rapp Jr., Mt. Carroll, presided at previous actions.

Dempsey's case remains before Judge Rapp.

Defense attorneys, Henry S. Dixon and John Caluwaert, representing Burke and Dunphy, argued their clients were entitled to re-arraignment on the charges because of an "irreversible error"—and one which would be a basis for appeal were a conviction entered," said Dixon.

The error, Dixon explained, came when their clients were not furnished an accurate list of grand jurors at the original arraignment on Sept. 26. The defendants were handed a list of 29 persons who were eligible to serve on the panel of grand jurors; however, state law sets the maximum number of persons who may sit in on a grand-jury session at 23.

"We're prepared to offer testimony from some of the persons on the list which will show they were out of town the day the indictments were returned and did not at all participate in the grand-jury proceedings," said Caluwaert in substantiating the motion for a new arraignment.

In further explanation of the motion, Caluwaert read from the bottom of one of the indictments returned against their clients: "The above said Grand Jurors present that the counts contained in this bill of indictment were duly voted upon and found as a true bill."

"We have error," reasoned Caluwaert, "because some of the 29 persons named did not vote on the indictments and we can show this."

Charles Levad and Brian David, attorney-general lawyers appointed as special assistant state's attorneys in the vote probe, both argued no law requires the specific list of jurors be furnished to the defendants.

"This type of information is public record—all they have to do is go to the court files—the only use I can see for this list would be to attempt to impeach an indictment by contacting the grand jurors," said Levad.

Levad cited a Supreme Court decision which stated the record need not show the exact number of jurors who returned an indictment. Caluwaert charged the high-court ruling "does not apply to this motion."

Dixon chimed in, saying "The statutes say no more than 23 persons can serve on a grand jury and we were handed a list with 29 names and that is an error."

At that point Judge Vincent interrupted and sided with the defense, saying the defendants are entitled to an accurate list and granted the motion.

Levad jumped up from his chair and said "We have no objection to furnishing the list, your honor, but we see no reason for another arraignment."

Dixon countered: "We don't want to change our earlier pleas (of innocent) but we now have a material change in the indictment" (with the granting of the motion).

Levad fired back: "The list is not a part of the indictment and if that's what you're arguing you're wrong," pointing to Dixon.

Judge Vincent replied: "I'm going to be frank and honest—I rather agree with both of you." He went on to grant the motion for a re-arraignment despite a last-minute appeal from David, who said there was no legal authority to hold the second arraignment.

No sooner had the judge granted the motion when Levad asked the court to enter an order stating all rights waived when the initial innocent plea was entered in September "continue to be waived now."

Caluwaert, not agreeing with the request, said the motion granted by Judge Vincent "is like starting the case all over."

With no decision reached on Levad's request, the arraignment began and no sooner had it started than Dixon asked the court's permission to have three days in which to file motions and at that point enter a plea.

Levad jumped to his feet: "Your honor, without a plea being entered it's not an arraignment." The judge agreed. Dixon, however, said he believed the defendants have the right to go over each count of the indictment and examine its validity.

That remark brought David to the bench, saying "It's becoming very clear now why you (Dixon) filed these motions—I think we all know why they were filed now." Dixon interrupted: "Let's not speak in innuendos. If you have something to say, bring it out in the open and say it."

David was presumably referring to the filing of certain motions by Dixon which he (Dixon) felt could not be filed after a plea had been entered, and seeking to accomplish this by asking for a re-arraignment on other grounds.

The heated exchange ended in the calling of a recess, after which Dixon filed two motions with the court and, at that point, entered innocent pleas on behalf of his clients.

The new motions filed on behalf of Burke and Dunphy are to dismiss the indictment because of improper selection of grand jurors and, secondly, to quash the indictment because the foreman failed to indicate the names of witnesses who appeared before the jurors. Judge Vincent scheduled a Nov. 12 hearing to argue the motions.

Judge Vincent continued bond for Burke and Dunphy at $5,000 personal recognizance. A trial date of Jan. 13 was set for Burke and a Jan. 20 trial date was scheduled for Dunphy.

DDC resident ordered held for murder trial

Following a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Lee County Circuit Court, Associate Judge Martin D. Hill ordered Terry Miller held for trial on a murder charge in the Oct. 12 death of Daniel Gallagher.

Charges were filed against Miller, a Dixon Developmental Center resident, on Oct. 21. The body of Gallagher, another DDC resident, was found Oct. 19 floating in the Rock River, just above the dam.

Dixon Police Detective Larry Hagen was called to the stand Tuesday by State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward. Hagen related that the body was recovered after police were notified by a citizen. Hagen also testified about a statement Miller made to officials the following day. According to Hagen, Miller stated that on Oct. 12, he attempted to commit sodomy with Gallagher at a secluded spot near the Rock River on DDC property.

Miller's statement went on, according to Hagen, that when Gallagher refused, a fight ensued. Gallagher was struck several times and shoved into the river, Miller told Hagen. Gallagher went under, came up once, sputtered, and went under again finally, the statement added.

A preliminary autopsy, conducted Oct. 20, found that Gallagher died as a result of drowning. A more extensive autopsy, conducted by Dr. Thiem Hoo Lie, pathologist at DDC, is under way. Results from those tests will not be available for approximately three weeks.

The statement given by Miller, Hagen said, was corroborated by Michael Kline, another DDC resident and a witness to the incident.

Public Defender William Sturgeon, representing Miller, asked Hagen if Miller had been advised of his rights before issuing the statement. Hagen said he did explain the rights to Miller, but Sturgeon questioned whether or not Miller understood his rights at the time.

Sturgeon also questioned the credibility of Kline, the witness to the alleged occurrence. Hagen further testified that no fingerprints or blood were found at the scene and that until final results of the autopsy were received, no further evidence was available.

Judge Hill ordered Miller held in Lee County Jail under $250,000 bond, pending further court action.

Four-year study reveals

More than 23 million American adults functionally illiterate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Office of Education today released results of a four-year study which indicate that more than 23 million U.S. adults are functionally illiterate, meaning they are unable to do such things as read help-wanted ads or make the most economical purchases.

"It is surprising, perhaps even shocking," the report said, "to suggest that approximately one of five Americans is incompetent or functions with difficulty and that about half of the adult population is merely functional and not at all proficient in necessary skills and knowledges."

The $1-million project, conducted by the University of Texas at Austin, attempted to redefine literacy and measure the competence of a person to function in an adult world.

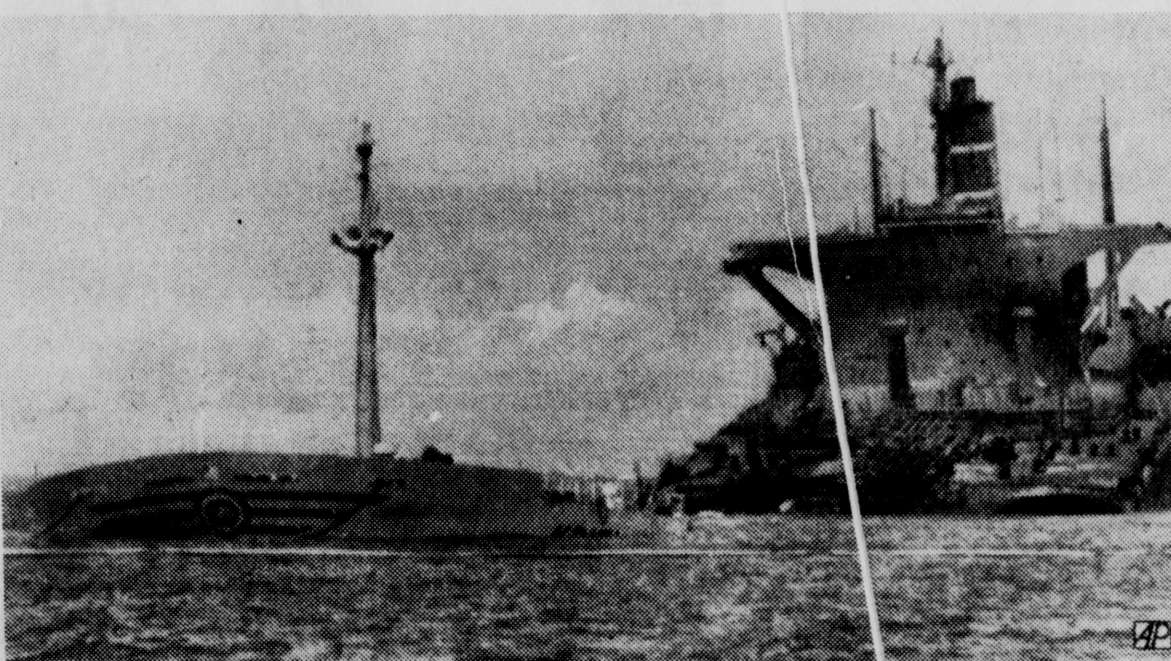

The researchers said they found the picture to be more dismal than had been believed previously.

Almost 30 per cent or 34.7 million persons aged 18 to 65 years of age flunked consumer economics and another 39 million were "functional but not proficient in such tests as reading a newspaper grocery ad."

In computations, such as determining the unit price for various sized boxes of breakfast cereal, 39 million adults fell into the lowest scoring category and another one-fourth, 29.5 million, were in the medium range, suggesting they were functional but not proficient.

The greatest competence was scoring in writing, with almost three-fifths of the adult population performing adequately, but 16.4 per cent or 18.9 million persons were "unable to cope successfully," the report said.

Combining the skills in nine areas measured through tests and interviews with thousands of adults during the four years, the researchers said 19.7 per cent scored in the low range, 33.9 per cent in the medium range and 46.3 per cent in the high or proficient range.

Economic indicators decline for first time in 7 months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index designed to anticipate future economic trends sustained its first drop in seven months during September, contradicting other signals showing continued economic growth at least into next year, the Commerce Department said today.

The department said its index of leading economic indicators, a composite of a dozen statistics, dropped nine-tenths of 1 per cent in September, in contrast to an eight-tenths of 1 per cent advance in August.

The decline, however, was not a sure signal of a halt in economic recovery. Only 11 of the 12 items in the index were available for the September report, and the index is subject to later revision.

The August increase, for example, was initially reported last month as no change.

Most analysts consider a three-month trend in the indicator necessary to establish the foreshadowing of a turnaround in the economy.

In another report, the department said the nation's trade computed in its balance of payments accounts showed $2.3 billion surplus for the 3-month period ending in September.

That was off from the $3.3 billion surplus in the previous quarter and represented the third consecutive quarterly surplus.

The department reported Tuesday the foreign trade surplus for September was $976.4 million, compared to $1.04 billion in August. That figure was for only one month and included military trade, which was excluded from today's report.

The Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators was pushed downward in September primarily by a slower accumulation of liquid assets by business.

Liquid assets are cash and items which can be easily converted into cash. They indicate business's ability to meet short-term obligations.

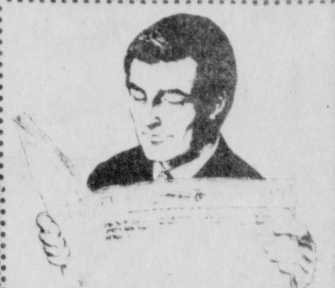

Other factors pushing the index downward were a higher lay off rate in manufacturing, a smaller volume of contracts and orders for factories and equipment, lower stock prices, a lower volume of new orders of consumer products received by manufacturers and their suppliers and a lower money supply after adjustment for the effects of inflation.

The indicator unavailable for the September report was the change in the volume of business inventories on hand or on order.

DDC resident is found dead

Stephen Noe, a resident of the Dixon Developmental Center, who was found dead on the institution grounds Wednesday, died as a result of an epileptic seizure, according to an autopsy conducted by the order of Coroner Robert Preston.

Preston said a minor injury to the head, near the eye, was ruled out by the autopsy as having any cause of the death of Noe.

Amboy couple marries

AMBOY — Miss Cindy Conibear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Conibear, Amboy, and Keith E. Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Noble, Sr., recently exchanged nuptial vows at the First Congregational Church.

Performing the afternoon double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Henry J. Holverson, pastor at the church. Mrs. Ernest Rosado, Amboy, played the organ and accompanied the singer, Miss McCabe, Ohio.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of bridal satin fashioned with an A-line skirt which draped from an empire waistline. Lace outlined the yoke and formed the sleeves and the long, sweeping train. The gown was made by the bride's mother. A face framer of lace and seed pearls held her two-tiered veil of illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor was Barb Conibear, Amboy, who wore a floor-length gown of peach color satin trimmed with lace. Her headpiece was a matching pillbox hat and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations tipped with peach and peach-colored daisies.

Bridesmaids were Kathy Tranka, Sharon Apple and Janelle Noble. They wore gowns styled like the maid of honor's in shades of blue, green and yellow, with matching pillbox hats. Their bouquets complemented their gowns.

Dave Hiatt, Freeport, attended the groom as best man, while Richard Nagel, Amboy, Rex Clark, Marion, and Karl Koesterer, Carbondale, served as groomsmen. Ushers were Dennis Chandler and Roger Noble, both of Amboy.

A reception followed the ceremony honoring the couple at the Green River Saddle Club with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Conibear acting as hosts. A buffet luncheon was served and was followed by dancing to music provided by Ron Eckberg.

The new Mrs. Noble is a 1974 graduate of Amboy High School and attended Sauk Valley College. She will graduate from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, in 1976 with an associate degree in computer programming.

Mr. Noble is a graduate of Amboy High School, and is presently a music and electronics major at SIU.

The newlyweds are making their first home in Murphysboro.

Buy first things first

Buy the foods essential for good nutrition before spending food dollars on unessential foods, advises Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist.

When money is tight, be sure to buy foods from the four basic food groups before spending dollars on those extras with little nutritional contribution.

Within each of the four basic food groups, good-quality foods are available at prices that will fit your purse. The most expensive food items are not necessarily the most nutritious ones, Ms. Downey says.

In the milk and milk products group, plan to buy the equivalent of three cups milk per day per child and two cups per adult. Dry milk mixed with water is the least expensive, whole and flavored milk the most costly. You can also mix the liquid dry milk with whole milk if you desire. Remember it takes about 1½ cups ice cream to have the same protein and calcium value as one cup of milk.

We should eat at least four different fruits and-or vegetables each day. Best buys in this group are usually canned fruits and vegetables, dried vegetables, or fresh produce at the peak of the season. However, check price per serving from season to season to determine the best buy.

Whole grain or enriched breads and cereals are within the budget foods, Ms. Downey continues. The recommended four servings per person per day can come from the low-cost breads, cooked cereals, and unsweetened dry cereal.

Meat, fish and poultry are foods that provide high-quality protein, with the lower-cost meat cuts just as nutritious as the high-priced ones. Eggs, cheese, dried peas and beans, nuts and peanut butter are also good protein foods, she adds.

You don't need over-generous servings of meat. The adult allowance for protein is 45 grams. One ounce of lean cooked meat, fish, poultry, two eggs or ¾ cup of cooked dried peas or beans are about 9 grams each. If you provide half the needed protein from animal foods, the remaining protein will be obtained from breads and cereals and other plant foods. Knowing the above will help you buy protein foods to fit your purse, Ms. Downey says.

Of course, in addition to the four food groups, you need to buy the essential ingredients for everyday cooking—fats, oils, salt, etc. But even here you can often make your money go for good nutrition. Iodized salt, for example, costs the same as uniodized, but it provides more nutrition.

Overcall works with length

By Oswald & James Jacoby
The object of bidding is to win as many points as possible with good hands and lose as few as possible with bad ones. General experience has shown that when you hold 13 or more high-card points you will do well to open the bidding. It has also shown that when you want to compete against an opponent's opening bid your main requirement is playing strength. When you overcall, you risk getting doubled.

North has an opening bid. It includes a six-card club suit and North gets right into the action with a two-club overcall. This bid suggests the possibility of defending at clubs in case East-West have the hand. It also suggests game possibilities if South has the balance of power.

South does have the balance of power. He has 10 high-card points and good club support. He also has a balanced hand with a spade stopper and decides to try for the game in no-trump. He bids two notrump and North is happy to take him

..... for and about women New blouse updates old skirts & slacks

COMFORTABLE AND CLASSIC is in for fall in blouses. At left is a polyester and cotton twill workshirt, featuring two double-flap pleated pockets and epaulets, styled for the worker— or for the dasher about town or relaxer with friends. Center, the classic riding shirt was the inspiration for this smart blouse. The ecru cotton body has a detachable white collar band that can be interchanged with a button-on white ascot. Right, interestingly enough, it's a touch of nostalgia that brings the tattersall cotton barbershop shirt up to date— white round collar and cuffs, puffed sleeves and a shirred yolk.

Girls today look like boys, says female of yesteryear

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to comment on that letter written by a teen-age girl who complained about the terrible manners of the teen-age boys in her school. She gave as an example the way the boys shoved the girls around and elbowed in front of them to get a seat on the school bus.

Our children are grown but in "My day" (I know how teenagers hate this phrase) we had no such problem. Why? Because boys looked like boys and girls looked like girls and they behaved like young ladies.

Today almost every girl I see looks like "one of the boys" in her jeans or overalls or hip-huggers, denim shirt, battle jacket and cowboy belt. After all, Ann, when a girl looks like "one of the guys" she shouldn't be surprised if she is treated like one. If I'm wrong, tell me. If I'm right, tell THEM.—Female Of Yesteryear

Dear Yester: Your point is well taken but I'm sure thousands of teen-agers out there are just aching to provide a rebuttal to your letter. I'll print the best one.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank God for your column. Until I read your statement that silicone injections were illegal, I didn't know it. A girl friend of mine has been getting them for several weeks and I was considering some for myself. I am 18 years old and very flat-chested.

Will you please tell me which of the bust developers (cream and exercisers) advertised in the magazines are best? Also, where can I find out about those silicone implants?—Flat And Uninformed

Dear F: The creams and so-called "bust developers" you see advertised in magazines are a crock of cranberries. The only people who profit from them are the manufacturers. Their dimensions DO increase—around the bank balance.

As for the silicone implants, ask your family doctor to recommend a plastic surgeon who does this type of work. Or write to the head of the department of surgery at a university medical school. Silicone implants are legal, safe and thousands of women have been very pleased with the results.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night our handsome, bright, 18-year-old son told my husband he is gay and we must accept him as he is because he has no desire to be anything else and is tired of pretending.

Is there any chance that this could be a passing fancy? Is it possible that our boy will outgrow this phase and end up falling in love with some nice girl? We see a life of misery ahead for him and plenty of heartache for us.

Please, Ann, no city or state. I am afraid to sign this. Just print my letter and your answer.—His Mother

Dear Mother: Anything is possible, but it is highly unlikely that an 18-year-old boy who makes such an announcement has any interest in changing from homosexuality to heterosexuality.

His life might not be as miserable as you think. Some gays do well in their chosen fields and are quite content. You and your husband, however, should seek counseling since you are the ones who are suffering from anxiety. Unless you have a better understanding of your son's homosexuality and learn how to accept it, you ARE going to have plenty of heartache.

Lee County Right to Life Committee

Dr. Mildred Jefferson, president of the National Right to Life Committee, will be the featured speaker at a Benefit Brunch to be held Nov. 9, at the Ramada Inn, Hoffman House East, Rockford. The brunch, which will begin at 12 noon, is being sponsored by the Lee, Whiteside and Winnebago County Right to Life Committee along with Brighthouse of Rockford.

Dr. Jefferson, a summa cum laude graduate of Harvard Medical School, is assistant clinical Professor in Surgery at Boston University's School of Medicine.

In a recent editorial, she wrote, "Our purpose is to defend the sanctity-of-life ethic as the basis of a democratic society to keep this a land for all and not the exclusive preserve of the privileged, the perfect and the planned. Our first goal, at this time, is to secure protection for the unborn child by means of a mandatory Human Life Amendment. By protecting life from the beginning to its natural end, such an amendment would reverse the U.S. Supreme Court's notion of social revolution of sacrificing by abortion the social burdens easiest to get at, the ones with no public voices and no votes of their own."

The cost of the brunch is $7.50 per person and reservations should be sent immediately to Mrs. Louis Tisovec, 3327 Montlake Drive, Rockford, Ill. 61111.

Dixon Woman's Club

The Dixon Woman's Club met Saturday in the Loveland Community House, to hear Mr. Richard F. Sopha, Naturopath, who practices in Rockford, and is president of the Rockford Chapter of National Health Federation. During his talk he said that there should be freedom of choice in health matters.

He also stressed the importance of natural foods rather than substitutes. "Vitamins," he said aren't food and are found in complexes. Vitamins, minerals, and foods are needed in the building of the body. He advised that people read labels and know what they're buying.

A question and answer period followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Bruce Whites, Mrs. C. S. Tovar, the co-hostesses, and their committee. The table was covered with a green linen cloth and was centered with an arrangement of fall flowers. Mrs. C. S. Tovar and Mrs. Fayette Warner served at the table.

ROBERT PRESTON

Preston to retire as coroner

Coroner Robert Preston today announced he will not run for re-election. In commenting on his decision, Preston said, "I have made the decision not to run for re-election in the fourth coming election for the office of Lee County Coroner."

"I was first elected to the office of coroner in 1948 and have served the people of Lee County continuously since that date. This is a trust that I have valued greatly and have appreciated the confidence that the voters have placed in me."

"One of the greatest things about running for office is that it gives a person the opportunity to meet others. My wife and I have felt it a privilege to do this and by it we have made friends that we would not otherwise have had. This has given us much pleasure through the years and I am sure it will continue to do so."

"Throughout the years Lee County has been blessed with many good office holders. They have been helpful and courteous, many times going beyond the line of duty. It is my hope that I can be counted among them."

"We plan to continue to living in Dixon and to try in our way to serve the people who have been so wonderful. My wife joins me in thanking the people of Lee County for the wonderful support during these past years."

Strike — While the Iron's Hot
If all of America's women decided to go on strike at once, what would happen? The National Organization for Women (NOW) is sponsoring a one-day nationwide women's strike, scheduled for today, to demonstrate just how much the country depends on its females. Strikers are being urged not to work either inside or outside their homes, and not to buy anything or volunteer for anything. NOW was established in 1966 by Betty Friedan, pictured above, who served as its president until 1970. NOW is the largest organization within the women's liberation movement. It has about 36,000 members in 700 chapters, including a chapter in India.

National YMCA is recipient of fitness award

It was announced today that the National YMCA has become the first organization in the United States to receive the Distinguished Service Award from the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. All previous recipients have been individuals. The award was given to the YMCA by President Gerald R. Ford and the Council for "Pioneering family fitness programs and facilities, rehabilitation programs for heart patients, and athletic achievements for youth."

In a repositioning, the YMCA plans to develop three or four Cardiovascular Health Centers, Health Enhancement Centers and Certified Fitness Activity Centers. When fully operational, the program should yield such results as: 3.5 million youth enrolled in aerobic activity and health education programs; 2.5 million adults enrolled in health enhancing physical fitness activities; 1.5 million adults enrolled in intervention program such as smoking withdrawal, hypertension reduction and weight control; and 200,000 coronary prone and coronary patients enrolled in systematic exercise therapy programs.

The Dixon Family YMCA has been chosen as one of the target YMCAs for the initial thrust of this new National YMCA program. The local YMCA staff recently attended the first YMCA Cardiovascular Health Conference at which some of the leading authorities on cardiovascular health spoke.

With 15 persons enrolled in the new "Y's Way To Fitness" the YMCA staff and board of directors feel that the Dixon community has indicated that this new thrust will be well received.

"This is one more area in which the Y has chosen to step out and provide real service to our community," said Richard Lovett, president of the YMCA board.

DOWNTOWN DIXON

One of a series of pictures of noted Americans and events in our history which will be printed in The Telegraph in recognition of the United State's Bicentennial in cooperation with the John Hancock Insurance Co.

The Statue of Liberty was created by Frederic A. Bartholdi, a Frenchman, and was presented to the United States by France in 1884 to symbolize the historic friendship between the two republics. It typifies the idea of freedom and brotherhood which underlies a republican form of government. The statue stands 151 feet in height and, from the foundation on which it stands, it is 305 feet to the top of the torch. There are 100 tons of bronze contained in the figure and the total weight is 450,000 pounds. The head will hold 40 persons; the torch can hold 12 people. No one is permitted higher than the diadem. The statue cost $250,000. Bartholdi was born in 1834 and died in 1904.

Hits out at orthodontists

CHICAGO (AP) — Orthodontists should be more concerned about fixing crooked teeth than trying to create pretty faces, two Boston dentists say.

Orthodontists, dentists who specialize in correcting malocclusions and other dental problems, have also had facial aesthetics as one of their primary concerns, they said.

The dentists, Drs. Sheldon and Harvey Peck, advised fellow dentists at the annual meeting of the American Dental Association that their primary concern should be in correcting dental problems.

"The face will usually take care of itself," Harvey Peck said in an interview.

Peck and Peck, who are brothers, are orthodontists on the faculty of the Boston University school of graduate dentistry.

Most patients treated by orthodontists are in puberty or adolescence and in the midst of active growth and maturation, they pointed out.

It is therefore not possible to make a dental correction which accurately envisions the contour the face will later have, they said, because the soft tissue of the face is not fully formed.

And the changes continued throughout life, they said, as the skin and tissue become thinner with age and the profile takes on flatter appearance.

8.1 per cent increase in gas prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices for regular grade gasoline have increased by a nationwide average of 8.1 per cent since the July 4th weekend, but the government has tried to suppress figures showing the rapid climb, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said today.

Aspin said the figures were compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics but were suppressed by the Labor Department. He said he obtained a copy of the price report from a disgruntled department employee.

Asked why the statistics were not released, a spokesman for the Wisconsin congressman blamed "bureaucratic inertia" or a desire not to publicize the rapidity of the price spiral.

The data showed that prices for premium-grade gasoline has increased 7.3 per cent nationwide since July and fuel oil was up 3.6 per cent.

According to the data, regular gasoline prices increased by 9.9 per cent in the western north-central states; by 9.4 per cent in Wisconsin-Illinois-Indiana-Michigan-Ohio and by 9.2 per cent in the mountain states of the West.

At the other end of the scale, Aspin said, the prices rose by 7 per cent in the Pacific states, 7.5 per cent in New England and 7.6 per cent in the middle Atlantic and southeastern states.

The eastern south-central states, had an 8 per cent increase and the western south-central, posted a rise of 8.5 per cent, he said.

For both premium gasoline and fuel oil, the western south-central states were hit the hardest, at 8.5 per cent and 4.8 per cent for premium gas and oil respectively, he said.

The fuel-oil information showed these boosts for other regions: Pacific, 4.7 per cent; eastern south-central, 4.5; western north-central, 4.4; Wisconsin-Illinois-Indiana-Michigan-Ohio, 4.3; middle Atlantic, 3.3; New England, 3.1; south Atlantic, 3.2 and Mountain, 2 per cent.

For premium gasoline Aspin said the increase for the western north-central states has been 8.2 per cent; New England, 7.9; middle Atlantic, 7.7; south Atlantic, 6.9; eastern south-central, 6.8; Mountain, 6.4; and Pacific, 6.2 per cent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're not likely to get too much accomplished today unless you're working on something artistic or creative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't come on too strong today in front of friends about something good that has happened to you recently. One pal is a bit envious.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Put things back in their places around the house today, or later when you look for something you need you'll not find it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be extra careful today not to pass on information told to you in the strictest confidence.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is not a good day to make important purchases. You could easily be talked into paying more than something is actually worth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pay compliments today if they're sincerely deserved, but don't attempt to use flattery to gain your ends. It won't work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't expect someone to bail you out of a problem situation today that was self-created. It will be left to you to unravel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Debit spending could be your downfall today. Wait till you have it tucked in the bank before assuming new obligations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't do anything today that could later reflect on your honor or reputation. Adhere to your highest ideals.

Top businesses begin unique self-examination

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A unique self-examination seems to be under way among some of the nation's top corporations as they seek to re-identify their capabilities and goals in an age of drastic change.

To some extent the inner-directedness seems to be a reaction similar to that identified in individuals who seek to recover from traumatic experiences by redefining their identities.

The result of the introspection, predicts Eugene Jennings, an authority on business management, will be to make much stronger in the 1980s some of the companies that have suffered the most from, among other things, the shortages, market changes and governmental restraints of the 1970s.

"Corporations as well as individuals have to have faith and the 1970s have dealt a devastating blow to a corporation's sense of what it is and where it is going," said Jennings.

While Jennings is a professor at Michigan State University and the author of many books on management, he became aware of the development in his role as confidential adviser to the chairmen of blue chip corporations.

In emerging from previous recessions, he said, 'corporations turned their attention outward again to exploit propitious opportunities of an expanding future." No longer is this entirely true, he said.

Corporations have always "tinkered" with some aspect or phase of their systems, but the pattern that seems to be developing today, he said, is for total corporate reassessment.

"The uncertainties and the constraints and the dismal record of the first half of the 1970s have caused corporations to lose sight of their purpose," he said. The extreme contrast with the free-wheeling 1960s seems to have added to the sense of loss.

"Corporations are asking themselves the tough questions," he said. "They were almost traumatized by the wild changes and uncertainties of the past five years and they kept looking outward for what was coming next — and when and where."

Now, he believes, many of the industries most severely impacted by problems—named autos, chemicals, mining, steel, energy, aerospace, electronics, information and banking—are readjusting their thinking, their goals, their techniques.

They are asking, said Jennings, if maybe the problem isn't with the world but with them. The inner probing, he said, is similar to what an individual sometimes discovers that if you have a continuing problem with another person the problem might be you.

The realization is settling in, he continued, that the world will never return to where it was and that a fundamental change, with an emphasis on capabilities and goals, is required.

Paw Paw advances in soccer meet

PAW PAW— The Paw Paw Soccer team was victorious in sub-sectional play Tuesday at Hinkley, with a 6-1 triumph over Shabonna.

Shabonna opened the scoring in the first period when Cliff Parker tallied on an assist from Rick Leifheit. That proved to be Shabonna's only marker of the afternoon as Paw Paw answered with a second-period goal by Mark Hanson, assisted by Dave DeClerk.

Jon Goble scored two of Paw Paw's three third-period goals. Ray Rupert, who scored the third, assisted Goble's first point. Scott O'Neal assisted the other goals of that quarter and added a goal himself in the final stanza. Barry O'Neal's unassisted fourth quarter tally was the other Paw Paw score.

Paw Paw faces Malta Thursday in the next round of the sub-sectional. The winner of that game will meet the winner of Hinkley vs. Waterman for the championship and qualification for sectional play.

DHS bulb sales

The Dixon High School Letterman's Club will be selling Sylvania light bulbs Saturday in an effort to help support athletics at the high school. The bulbs will be sold on a door-to-door basis throughout Dixon, at a price below retail cost. For more information about the project, Herb Jennings or Sam Applebaum may be contacted at the school. Sales will start at 9 a.m.

Ashton sports awards

On Monday, Nov. 10, the fall sports season awards and letters at Ashton will be presented to the sports participants. The presentations will be made at 3:15 p.m. Parents of the students to be honored are invited to attend ceremonies at the Ashton High School.

Amboy Athletic Banquet

The Fall Athletic Banquet for Amboy will be held Nov. 4 at 6:30 p.m. in the Amboy High School cafeteria. Football players, cross-country runners, and cheerleaders will be honored.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Tom Hosier, head football coach at Eureka College. He will be accompanied by Gary Jones, a co-captain of the Eureka team and former all-conference linebacker at Amboy.

Hosier is in his second year at Eureka, where he came after being assistant coach (offense) at Gustavus-Adolphus College in Minnesota. He received a master's degree from Indiana University.

The banquet is sponsored by the Amboy Clipper Backers and will be catered by Kazynski's from La Salle.

Coaches irked by officials

By The Associated Press
"The Bulls did not beat us tonight," said an angry Bill Russell, "it was (Jerry) Lober and (Lee) Jones, the two referees."

The Seattle coach was not amused after his Sonics got beat by the Bulls 101-90 in a National Basketball Association game in Chicago Tuesday night. Seattle outscored the Bulls from the field but lost it at the foul line, making 18 of its 25 free throws while Chicago cashed in on 33 of a whopping 51 attempts. Four Sonics — Leonard Gray, Dick Watts, Bruce Seals and John Hummer — fouled out as opposed to one Bull.

"I think the NBA is in for a rough time this season," said Russell. "As a matter of fact it was an out and out disgrace tonight. I tell my players to do the things we ask them to do, but how can they when we get this kind of refereeing."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Los Angeles beat Milwaukee 99-92, Golden State whipped New York 111-94, New Orleans dumped Portland 99-94 and Buffalo walloped Houston 124-108. There was only one American Basketball Association game played and San Antonio won it 108-103 over Virginia.

Seattle's Russell was not the only coach upset about the officiating in Chicago.

"What bothered me tonight was that I have never seen so many people in foul trouble so early," said Dick Motta of the Bulls. "When (Jerry) Sloan and (Norm) Van Lier each got four fouls, it made me change the tempo of the game and it became quite frustrating."

Bob Love scored 23 points and reserve forward Rowland Garrett added 22 for Chicago. Garrett collected five straight points late in the fourth period to stall a Seattle comeback bid. Watts led the Sonics with 18 points but high-scoring guard Fred Brown was limited to one basket in 14 shots.

Lakers 99, Bucks 92
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar made his return to Milwaukee a success with 30 points and Cazzie Russell had 33, including a pair of clutch buckets late in the game, for Los Angeles. Rookie

Lynn named top rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — From Rookie of the Year to Sophomore Jinx: it's such a familiar story. But 1975's best American League freshman, Fred Lynn of Boston, thinks he knows how to elude the jinx.

"I think the big thing I learned this season is the mental part of the game, which should really help next year," the center fielder said Tuesday after learning of his near-unanimous selection.

"One thing I want to do is take a day off once in awhile and make sure I go to a lighter bat."

Lynn came within one-half vote of becoming only the second rookie ever to win unanimous acclaim. He was named on all 24 ballots but split one vote with teammate Jim Rice.

He also has a good shot at becoming the first player ever to win Rookie of the Year and his league's Most Valuable Player awards in the same season.

"It's everything I worked for," said the 23-year-old Lynn. "I thought about the award a little during the season. As we went around the league, it was easy to figure Jim Rice was the fellow I'd have to beat in order to be selected."

Lynn follows Mike Hargrove of Texas as the AL rookie winner and is the fourth Red Sox player to win the AL rookie award since the Baseball Writers of America originated the award in 1947. First baseman Walt Dropo won it in 1950, pitcher Don Schwall took it in 1961 and catcher Carlton Fisk won it in 1972.

Fisk was the only unanimous winner but Lynn came as close as possible to matching that achievement.

The voting committee was composed of two writers from each of the league's 12 cities. They vote for one player each, but one writer split his ballot, saying he couldn't choose between the two young Red Sox.

Lynn wound up last season hitting .331, trailing only Minnesota's Rod Carew in the American League batting race. He hit 21 home runs, drove in 105 runs and led the league in slugging, runs scored and doubles.

Rice hit .309 and had 102 RBI. He and Lynn were the first rookie teammates in the AL ever to hit over .300 and drive in more than 100 runs.

Lynn credited consistency for his outstanding season.

"I'm not sure, but I don't think I ever went three games in a row without a hit this season," he said.

The National League Rookie of the Year will be announced Thursday.

One-platoon system considered by Big Ten coaches

CHICAGO (AP) — If two football coaches among the Big Ten's have-ones, Bob Commings of Iowa and Cal Stoll of Minnesota, have their way, college football will return to a one-platoon game.

The two cast votes Tuesday for just such a move.

Commings was emphatic about the matter and Stoll said he had given some thought to it as both coaches were interviewed by telephone at the weekly Chicago Football Writers' meeting.

"We played well against Penn State and could have won and we played well against Southern Cal," Commings said.

"We didn't stink up the field against Ohio State. We were prepared for Ohio State and still didn't have a chance. If we had 16 or 18 of our best players playing, we would have had a chance."

"In the days of one-platoon football which I played, there would be two or three major upsets a week. Now you're lucky if there is one a year," he added.

"It is not just in the Big Ten that you have the Big Two and the Little Eight. It's going on all over — the Big Eight, the Pacific Eight, the Southwest Conference, the Southeastern Conference."

"We can get 15 real good players at Iowa and could compete under one-platoon football. But we just can't get 30," said

Commings, who added that most coaches favor two-platoon football because they have been with it so long.

"Go back and look at the records and you'll find Iowa had its championship teams under one-platoon football."

Stoll said he had discussed the matter with Commings, "who has a good point, but I haven't thought about it that much or looked at all the possible ramifications."

"I know one thing, Minnesota had its great teams back in the days of one-platoon football," Stoll said. "It seems there are 15 or 20 real good players available to us but not 30 or 40 as you need in two-platoon football."

Coach John Pont of Northwestern disagreed with Commings or Stoll for several reasons.

"I coached both," said Pont. "If we were to go to single-platoon football, we'd have to keep the team out on the practice field for three hours a day. The ramifications of teaching a man to go both ways would present academic problems and that's what I am more concerned about."

"I don't think single-platoon football is the panacea for all our ills," Pont said. "Recent NCAA legislation has not been to bring about equality. It was for financial reasons. Let's face it, we're going broke."

Good outlook for state goose hunters

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — By the sights of most waterfowl specialists, Illinois' 1975 goose hunting season should be one of the most productive in years.

Cold weather, which drives the honkers south out of Canada for the winter each year, hadn't really settled in up north by mid-October, but the birds already were winging into Southern Illinois in surprising numbers.

Nearly 40,000 splashed down at Horseshoe Lake Game Reserve, a top shooting spot in the region. Russell Garrison, refuge manager, said that normally just 1,000 birds would be on hand.

First arrivals were noted in mid-September.

Flyway reports, the Conservation Department says, show massive buildups of ducks and geese heading south after lay-overs in Wisconsin. Illinois can expect 400,000 or more Canada geese to fly through, the bulk of them along the Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

And more should stay this year than last because a better agricultural year has produced more feed.

The 7-to-14-pound birds traditionally graze in force along a line from Cairo to Chester, an area richer than usual in grain, corn, sorghum, fescue, wheat and clover.

At Horseshoe Lake the state grew 2,600 acres of crops to prepare for the migration. Gun club owners are waiting to see how much of it will be harvested and how much left to stand.

Though most hunters expect the shooting to last into January, it is likely the quotas in prime areas will be reached before season's end, Jan. 20.

In Alexander, Jackson, Williamson and Union counties the magic number is 22,000, same as last year. Perhaps 100,000 geese will be taken in Southern Illinois.

Not all will go to hunters, however. More and more eagles are learning to scavenge cripples in shooting areas. Garrison expects two to three dozen bald eagles to arrive with the geese.

Shooting begins Nov. 25 and is limited to the hours between sunrise and 3 p.m. Blinds, as usual, are expected to be in short supply.

The goose crop looks good in northern Illinois, too.

An aerial census of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers shows 10,500 on the Illinois from LaSalle to Pekin, 2,000 from Pekin to Alton, 7,000 geese on the Mississippi from Moline to Keokuk and 7,000 from Keokuk to Alton.

Sport shorts

BOSTON (AP) — The knee injury to Boston Bruins' left winger Don Marcotte will keep him sidelined indefinitely, officials of the National Hockey League team reported.

Marcotte slid into a goalpost during a game Oct. 12 against the New York Islanders. The injury was diagnosed as a hyperextension to his right knee.

Marcotte will go on a three-week exercise program, said trainer Dan Canney, and then will be able to begin skating with a brace.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Lobsters of World Team Tennis have acquired Greer Stevens of South Africa in a trade with the Indiana Loves.

Stevens played the second half of the 1975 season for the Lobsters on loan from Indiana's protected list.

Lobsters officials said acquisition of the 18-year-old, 1975 WTT Rookie of the Year was made by releasing the rights to Beth Norton of Connecticut.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Running back Doug Dressler, a six-year veteran of the National Football League, was signed as a free agent Tuesday by the Kansas City Chiefs.

To make room for the 6-foot-2, 228-pound Dressler, who was waived last week by the New England Patriots, the Chiefs waived second-year running back Cleophus Miller.

Dressler was with the Cincinnati Bengals from 1970 through 1974, but missed the 1973 season and part of 1974 with a knee injury, and was traded to New England.

HAZEL PARK, Mich. (AP) — Trainers of horses at the Hazel Park Race Track voted unanimously Tuesday to form their own association.

Jack Foran of Detroit, the top trainer at Detroit Race Course earlier this year and currently No. 2 at Hazel Park, said a recent blast against Hazel Park by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association triggered the decision by the trainers to unite.

Cubs send Kessinger to Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have reached out again for a shortstop, and Don Kessinger says he's ready.

"I can do more to help a club now than at any time previously," remarked the 33-year-old Kessinger following his acquisition Tuesday from the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Mike Garman and a player to be named.

"I've taken care of myself and now's the time to reap the benefits," he added. "I know I can do anything on the field that I ever did."

A .256 lifetime hitter, Kessinger batted only 2.43 during the 1975 National League baseball season, his 11th with the Cubs.

"In the last 2½ months I felt better at the plate than I ever did," he said, however. "I picked up at the end, but when you go to bat over 600 times in a season you have a hard time picking up many points on your average in September."

The Cards' search for a shortstop has been a priority project since Dal Maxvill was traded at the end of the 1972 season.

Ray Busse was tried at the position in 1973 but quickly gave way to Mike Tyson, a scrappy fireball who has since withstood numerous challenges.

Tyson, however, is considered a better second baseman than he is a shortstop, meaning the Cards may have intentions of trading Ted Sizemore to provide him a spot.

Cards General Manager Bing Devine, who last year dealt away three pitchers for American League veteran Ed Brinkman to play shortstop, later traded Brinkman to the Texas Rangers for Willie Davis.

"Kessinger's played in the National League," Devine said in defense of his latest move. "We've seen him play and our people have been able to judge him on the basis of what they saw instead of taking the word of scouts."

The 6-foot-1 Kessinger, a former basketball-baseball star at Mississippi, admitted a lifelong affinity for the Cards stemming from his boyhood in Forrest City, Ark.

"That's still Cardinal country," he noted. "I was a great Cardinal roofer as a kid. Stan Musial was my favorite."

Garman, a 26-year-old right-handed relief pitcher who slipped to a 3-8 record in 1975, admitted reservations toward pitching in Chicago's compact Wrigley Field and reluctance on the part of his 8-year-old son to leave St. Louis.

"He heard that they were building the world's largest roller coaster," Garman said of a project under way at an amusement park. "and now he'll be in Chicago."

"I wish nothing but the best for all concerned," said Kessinger, Chicago's starting shortstop since 1965, from his home in Memphis, Tenn. "I have nothing but respect for the Cubs."

WTT vies for Chris Evert

By JOHN SHURR
Associated Press Writer

What will it take to entice golden girl Chris Evert away from the women's summer circuit and into the razzle-dazzle world of team tennis along with the game's other top female stars?

Does $160,000 a year sound reasonable?

That's the figure sources close to World Team Tennis were quoting Tuesday night to The Associated Press.

Earlier in the day, Jim Walker, president of the Phoenix Racquets, proudly announced he had acquired Miss Evert's draft rights. And in no uncertain terms, he said:

"We have made an offer which would be the best of any player active in WTT — and that includes Billie Jean King, John Newcombe and Evonne Goolagong Cawley."

If WTT nets Chrissie, who says she is tired of the summer circuit, it will have acquired virtually all of the sport's top female talent and, consequently, wiped out the summer tournaments.

Already on the league's bandwagon, aside from Mrs. King and Mrs. Cawley, are such names as Margaret Court, Virginia Wade, Betty Stove, Kerry Melville, Francoise Durr, Rosemary Casals and Martina Navratilova.

Sources said Miss Evert was being offered $160,000 to play the 1976 WTT season, a salary that would put her ahead of Mrs. Cawley's reported $140,000 and Miss Navratilova's $100,000.

But Phoenix is not one of the league's most financially stable franchises. It does, however, have on its roster one of Chrissie's best pals, Kris Kerner-Shaw.

Two other clubs are also seeking Miss Evert's two-fisted backhand and almost faultless backcourt game — the Golden Gaters, who traded her draft rights to Phoenix, and the Indiana Loves.

Nevertheless, sources say the Racquets have the inside track and are "close to reaching an agreement."

The WTT executive committee met last Friday and discussed with Jimmy Evert, Chris' father, terms of a contract and the financial stability of the Racquets.

After winning the U.S. Clay Court Championships at Indianapolis last August, Miss Evert said: "I've played European and American circuits for four consecutive years, and it's not getting any more interesting. I'm supposed to win, otherwise it's a tragedy. Now I would like to relax a little."

Whether a WTT schedule

could be called relaxation is open to debate, but tournament organizers aren't exactly thrilled about losing their last top draw.

Says Steve DeVoe, chairman for the Clay Court tournament: "If all the top women are playing WTT next summer, we'll have to look seriously at the type of tournament we'll have."

"If Chrissie goes, it's going to hurt the women's summer circuit and it'll put the women back at a real disadvantage against the men as far as getting good purses is concerned."

DALLAS (AP) — Attendance has gone over the million mark at Southwest Conference football games.

The average attendance is 38,021 per contest. Texas A&M is averaging 11.1 per cent over last season and leading the SWC with an average attendance of 48,745 in their 48,000 capacity stadium.

America's third century—Part 2

Business being relegated to a bureaucratic death

By NORMAN MACRAE
Deputy Editor
The Economist of London
(Second in a series)

Six years ago, I wrote about a "long-standing go-getting element in America's culture which Europeans and others have been unable to imitate."

In 1969 I searched America for this element, and thought that I found it in the greater instinct of Americans, shown equally by the American engineer in the factory and the American housewife in the kitchen, to say: "now here is the problem, how can I solve it by a systematic approach?" This year I searched for it again.

It is still there when Americans are allowed to make individual decisions. But an increasing number of decisions in America are now being caught up in bureaucratic nets instead.

In business this applies particularly to ventures into new fields. If you are introducing a new product in America, then the order of operation is laid down as (1) recognition of need, (2) proposal of design, (3) certification of design concept, and so on to stage number umpteen. All those departments and layers of management in big corporations then insist on being consulted at every stage, building up their empires of staff to meet the extra work which they create for themselves.

The increasing time between the beginning and completion of any task in American business is in fact a sign of increase in bureaucratization and of the need for America to escape from economic planning back to paying more attention to a rapidly changing market.

Declining Investment
One aspect of this bureaucratization is the declining investment in new technology. For the last 25 years, America's investment has been a lower percentage of GNP than any other industrial country's except Britain's.

In the mid-1960s, it became fashionable to say that America was bound to pull ahead of Europe because of a "management gap." It has now been discovered, however, that management science does not exist.

The present American corporation management system — of periodically reorganizing its structures — is a device for dealing with the problems of bureaucracy, not for replacing it by entrepreneurship.

American business corporations therefore face three problems: dynamism is becoming unloved at home (and is called imperialism abroad), there is bureaucratization of technology and partly of business. It will be a misfortune for the hungry half of the world if America also comes to believe that the problems of its dying manufacturing age can thus best be met by an unproductivity drive.

End of Multinationals
The key strategies for American business corporations should be (1) to move the boring manufacturing jobs down to the poor South of the world, at maximum profit to both the poor South and themselves; (2) to redesign their domestic structures to fit the new knowledge, intensive, unobsequious, post manufacturing age.

Manufacturing is going to continue its march out of America anyway, much faster than you think. Today only about 23 per cent of America's workforce is in manufacturing, and I expect it to drop to below five per cent over the next few decades.

Awkwardly, at this moment when America's main exports should be of jobs and technology, America's main mechanism for exporting jobs and technology has run crazy. While novelists write best-sellers predicting that by 2020 the world will be ruled by six giant American multinationals is now likely to be ending.

The American system of technology transfer by multinationals has inhibited transfers to many of the poor countries (except about a half-dozen which are temporarily very well-ruled and about another dozen are very corrupt). So American manufacturing multinationals have gone especially to Western Europe, which was the next richest area to America and therefore the next where manufacturing was bound to become uneconomic once Europe had stopped importing the temporary migrant workers to whom the natives were unfriendly but on whom European manufacturing relied.

In the years ahead manufacturing will be most profitable if operated out of the world's poor South, but it might be economically rather pollutant for America to have lots of dinosaurs' dying bodies lying about.

The New Entrepreneurs
American business corporations will therefore need to lead the world in their third revolution into a new mode. The requirement for the knowledge-processing age will be to become the most efficient incentive-offers to get college-educated Americans to use their imaginations, instead of being the most efficient at supervising how American non-operators don't turn a screw. The mode that most appeals to me is one of John Diebold's concepts of perhaps gradually making American business corporations more into "confederations of entrepreneurs."

In the most extreme version of this very broad idea a big business corporation would codify the costs and output required from its existing departments (transport department, typing pools, etc.).

Then individuals or groups within the corporation could bid if they thought they could produce the stipulated output more competitively than the existing department did. If the tenders looked sensible, they could either take over the job on contract or (more usually at first) compete with the existing departments.

Contracts for the internal entrepreneurs could either be "very entrepreneurial" (paying you something much less than your existing salary, so the new typing pool which you are running — which would be able to subcontract work out and in — would be a subsidiary company 49 per cent owned by you, could eventually be sold, making you a millionaire if you prove to have struck on a gimmick to make typing pools very much more productive in terms of what is actually wanted from them).

That would provide more freedom and excitement at work for those who want to become entrepreneurs. But it would be an integral part of any scheme for "confederations of entrepreneurs" that non-entrepreneurial people should also have a wider choice of job satisfactions open to them.

The first step should be for workers to be able to state the job satisfactions they seek. Maybe Smith just wants $12,000 a year made with the smallest attendance at work at dates chosen by him. Maybe Browne wants to be a lazy genius, and Braun to be a frenetic one. Maybe total flexitime is important to some people, and total orderliness to others.

It is plain that free people in industrial countries need to be given a greater say in what they choose as their conditions of work. This will either have to be consumer freedom, or producer democracy.

Consumer freedom is what you have when you can buy your groceries at several competing supermarkets; we need to be able to choose our lifestyles with at least as much freedom as we choose our brands of soap (and our choice between soaps is now wide and good). Producer democracy means you choose by voting who will run your workplace, just when electorates all over the world are finding that voting for Nixon-Agnew or McGovern-Eagleton really is not a very good way of choosing who should run the store.

Producer democracy would also put more power into the hands of trade unions. Yet people all over the world are showing in public opinion polls that they want precisely the opposite.

In Europe the power of trade unions is already so large that they may force unsuccessful experiments in producer democracy. In America the power of trade unions is smaller (sometimes because unions are more sensible, sometimes because they are more criminal); and my guess is that there is a greater hope that American corporations may move toward becoming confederations of entrepreneurs and showplaces of consumer freedom. But businesses have not considered this yet.

American society has not considered the even more exciting 200th birthday possibilities lying ahead of it, either.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE F-609: On Mother's Day last Spring, 5-year-old Jimmy wanted to surprise his mommy.

But he was a poor ghetto lad, with only 3 pennies so he wondered what he could do for her.

As he crossed a vacant lot, he found a few dandelions in bloom.

Carefully he broke off the stems of 7 dandelion blossoms and then held them behind his back as he entered his tenement home.

"Jimmy, where have you been?" his mother sharply inquired.

So he held out the 7 dandelion bloom and his 3 pennies as he replied:

"Mommy, these are all for you!"

"Don't you know it's Mother's Day?"

Mommy stared at Jimmy in surprise for a moment; then scooped him up in her arms and kissed him.

Gone was her sharp scolding tone as she thanked him for the precious token of his love.

True Love

"Dr. Crane," coeds often inquire, "how can I tell if my boy friend is merely infatuated with me, or loves me truly?"

Well, true love is unselfish! It isn't a "gimme" attitude whereby the boy friend is pressuring his coed sweetheart into spending the weekend at a motel, without benefit of a wedding ring.

True love has an angelic element, divorced from mere sexual magnetism.

True love thus is demonstrated in Jimmy's attempt to make his mommy happy, even with his meager dandelion bouquet and 3 pennies.

And when she took him up in her arms to give him a grateful kiss, her love was not a matter of mere sexual fascination like that which drives a rapist to assault a strange woman.

True love thus rises above sensory hungers, either for food, shelter or erotic bedroom indulgence.

Which is why I have been telling you coeds and wives that when men proposition you, without proving their true affection with a wedding ring, then beware!

"Dr. Crane is too sexy!" an irate 40-year-old wife recently denounced this "Worry Clinic."

"All he talks about is boudoir cheesecake!"

"And he sides with the men so they can have an excuse to run around with outside paramours!"

Yet this is the one newspaper feature that has constantly pioneered the fact that illicit sexual affairs are medically, psychologically and morally wrong!

Herein I have NEVER urged husbands to chase around after youthful paramours, maybe half their age.

Instead, I have shown you wives that you yourselves are usually 50 per cent to blame by actually driving your own mates away, because of your rationing of boudoir cheesecake!

Although true love has an angelic element, on a day-to-day basis the other human appetites must also be satisfied.

Those include primarily the desire for dining room roast beef and boudoir cheesecake.

For the Bible says God made man a little lower than the angels.

And it's about 5 feet lower meaning the distance south of the Adam's apple to terra firma!

So a 100 per cent successful wife must satiate her mate with gastric, as well as erotic, calories!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Oct. 29, the 302nd day of 1975. There are 63 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1929, the New York stock market collapsed, setting off the worst financial catastrophe in U.S. history.

On this date:

In 1618, Sir Walter Raleigh was executed in London, charged with treason against England's King James I.

In 1682, William Penn landed at what is now Chester, Pa.

In 1918, German sailors mutinied at Kiel Naval Base, demanding prompt World War I peace negotiations with the Allies.

In 1923, the Republic of Turkey was proclaimed.

In 1940, numbers were drawn in the first peacetime military draft in the United States.

In 1956, Israel launched an attack against Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Thought for today: True friendship is like sound health. The value of it is seldom known until it is lost. — C.C. Colton, English clergyman and writer, about 1780-1851.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, four American armed ships outfitted in Massachusetts put to sea to cruise the East Coast in search of British ships carrying arms and provisions.

U.S. 'Don't bail out NYC'

Your federal government: Please do not bail out the politicians that have wasted the taxpayers' money in New York City. If you do, nearly every mayor and city council in America will try the same scheme.

Tell New York to clean up its own mess. The city council can start by annulling rent control, which lowers the value of property and reduces the income of the tax collectors.

Why should all taxpayers in America have to pay more money just to save the banks who foolishly loaned money to the city politicians to continue paying high salaries to all the various unions in New York and many unnecessary expenses.

The chairman of the Federal Task Force said billions of dollars are being lost by ineligible persons using false identification to collect welfare and food stamps. Millions of dollars go down the drain in New York City every month, with the permission of the New York City politicians.

Congressmen, please do not help the rulers of New York City or any other city that wastes the taxpayers money on bad management of mayors and city councils. Vice President Nelson Rockefeller came out foursquare for aid or a guaranteed loan to New York City. He said if Congress wants to show its leadership it had a grand opportunity to display its muscle. It could mobilize Democratic strength to help a Democratic mayor and a Democratic governor. How good a Republican is President Ford when he appoints such a man as Rockefeller Vice President?

Ben T. Shaw

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat, the leader of the most populous and powerful country in the Arab world, visits President Ford in Washington like the man on the burning deck "whence all have fled, save he."

In the long run, nothing can be achieved in the Middle East without Egypt. But only two things hold the Arab world together: Islam and hatred of Israel.

There are 20 Arab nations and Sadat's leadership toward peace with Israel automatically creates a whole variety of countermeasures and resistances among the mixture of kings, presidents, dictators and what-not in the Arab world.

Egypt's president can persuade. Before meeting President Ford in Salzburg, Austria, on June 1 Sadat conferred with Sha Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in Tehran, conferred in Riyadh with Saudi Arabian King Khalid, the late King Faisal's successor, conferred in Kuwait with Hseik Sabah al-Salim, in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez al-Asad and was the first president of Egypt ever to visit Iraq or Jordan. These Arab countries rounded out Sadat's appeals for peace with Israel.

Sadat, man of peace

Sadat is a man of vision and he can urge vision, which he did. He can urge moderation. But he cannot order the other Arab nations or control the jealousies.

The internal turbulence is typical. There have been 81 recorded political murders of civic leaders, top military commanders, etc., and on 16 separate occasions since 1958 Arab countries have broken diplomatic relations with other Arab countries.

In standing for peace with Israel, Sadat is performing with extraordinary courage: make no mistake about that.

In neighboring Libya, twice the size of Texas, Sadat confronts wildman dictator Muammar el-Qaddafi. Qaddafi repeatedly urges war with Israel and recently made a multibillion arms deal with the Soviet Union.

Arrogant, impossible Qaddafi has publicly sworn to "eliminate" Sadat. He plots constantly against Egypt's president and even had a small radical group attempt to seize a Cairo military technical college. Qaddafi's aim was to overthrow, or kill Sadat.

There are 24 factions within the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), most of them swearing vengeance against Sadat for promoting peace with Israel. For other reasons, Lebanon and Jordan regularly fight the PLO and, periodically, so do Algeria, Iraq, Morocco, North and South Yemen, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

I have been to Egypt repeatedly and there you find that the man in the street in Aswan, Luxor, Cairo, Alexandria and throughout the country calls Sadat "Al-Misri"—The Egyptian. You hear him described—correctly—as "a man who wants to live and let live."

President Gamel Abdul Nasser died unexpectedly in 1970. Successor Sadat was nominated by the 350-member, popularly elected People's Assembly. In a national referendum, Sadat was elected for a six-year term. He received 90 per cent of the popular vote.

Nasser and Sadat, however, are as different as night and day. Nasser pushed relentlessly to create a personality cult. Sadat's style, personality and objective are precisely the reverse. Nasser typified the war-making man on horseback. Sadat's theme is peace. Where Nasser bullied, Sadat is conciliation personified.

Anti-American Nasser embraced the Soviet Union. Sadat ordered Russia to withdraw its personnel (there were 15,000 Soviet troops in Egypt) and his rapprochement with the United States resulted in President Ford's invitation to the White House.

Almost single-handed, Sadat was also the force behind the lifting of the Arab world's oil embargo. Moreover, he wants the price reduced. He insists that what the Arab producers need most is not a gouging price for their oil but a stable, long-term demand for the product; that they are shortsightedly killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

Sadat has survived a period of turbulence, at least five assassination attempts on his life by his external and internal rivals and plots galore to emerge as the leader of his country, which he is.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger once told me: "I had not been with President Sadat 10 minutes before I realized that I was with a true statesman." I agree.

Comments on DHS drinking party

Pastors behind coaches

The Lee County Ministerial Association voted unanimously to support the coaches, principal, and other authorities enforcing the school policy forbidding the use of tobacco, alcohol, and other drugs by students participating in high school athletics.

Most sincerely,
Mary Ewbank
Secretary

Ex-student says . . .

I would like to address this letter to the people of Dixon. I am astounded over the scandal that seems to have developed over 16 DHS athletes being at a drinking party.

The purpose of this letter is to show that the problem of alcohol in Dixon is twofold, the parents and the students.

I feel I'm in a good position to write this letter for two reasons. One, I am separated from the whole incident; I am currently 160 miles away at school and my only source of knowledge of this is through The Dixon Evening Telegraph. I do not know who was involved in the incident since the names were not disclosed. Two, I, myself, was once involved in a similar incident during my high school career, so I can sympathize with the grief these students are now being subjected to.

This event would not have been headline news had it been students other than athletes. Since they were athletes, the school has seen fit to punish them. This will only compound the problem. The problem is the parents are out of touch with their kids. So far out of touch that they don't realize the whole scope of the problem. Every weekend approximately one-third of the high school is involved in drinking or some drinking-related activity. This problem has grown since I was in school and even while I was in school, it was growing.

There are several reasons for this growth. Look at the emphasis you and your friends put on drinking. You, the adults, provide the models for the kids. Then some of these kids start drinking and then social pressures of being labeled as "goody-goody" or "chicken" force others to start. Consider, also, the activities available to a high school student on a Saturday night. The consist of bowling, going to the YMCA, or going to one of the pizza shops or going "riding around." With these choices it's no wonder kids turn to alcohol or drugs for something to do; alcohol provides fun and excitement. You might say "my child doesn't drink," but how do you know; ask him, he'll deny it. Then when you catch him you'll be surprised. I suggest that parents are out of touch with what their kids are actually doing on weekends. Some of you really believe you are in touch with your kids, some of you don't care; it's time now that you thought about solving the problem by changing with your kids.

High school athletes are not gods; they see their friends drink so they join in with them. Punishment will not solve the problem, it will only take away one of the few activities available to these students. At this point, I would like to offer some suggestion. I would like to see a youth board formed consisting of parents, teachers and students. The students should be allowed to talk at these meetings without fear of repercussions.

As a second suggestion, I would like to see more activities open to students on weekends; for example, a group might be allowed to show old movies at the high school auditorium for a slight fee, or bring concerts to the school.

I think understanding should be used in regard to these unfortunate 16 students, possibly lightening some of their punishment. You, the people, must change and now is the time.

Steve Snodgrass

DHS alum ashamed

I would like to comment on how the other surrounding towns of Dixon are looking upon the disgrace of Dixon High School. The people I have talked to would not let their child attend a school where a student makes a mistake and is disgraced in front of the whole community.

I attended Dixon High School for four years from 1968 to 1972. Nothing like this had ever taken place up till now. Why? This has been going on for many, many years and nothing has been done up till now. Why??? Is it because certain players in previous years need protection because of their names for their wrong doings? Or was it because everybody was perfect and did nothing wrong all these years? If this is true, what a pity that Sam Applebaum could not have been a coach in Dixon then.

As stated in your sports section of your newspaper, the coaches stay up all night formulating plays while the football players are out "having fun." I lived with a Dixon High School football player who I never saw mentally down. Before the Sterling game, I asked him "Are you going to win?" With one win and all the rest losses behind his football team, he still said "You better believe it!!!" Before the La Salle-Peru game, I asked him "Are you going to win?" As he put it, "My ribs are killing me, but I am going to give it all I got." But Mr. Vail, Mr. Applebaum, and Mr. Cuniff, this is a player on the team who didn't care to play football but to go out and "have fun."

I will be perfectly honest. I am ashamed to be from the town of Dixon who makes a big deal over a mistake that some high school students made. And a mistake that was being made by football, basketball, and all other athletes during the years I was in school. I know my brother and all the rest of the students broke the ruled of DHS, but to be made in such a deal that it is on the front of your newspaper every night and on your radio station every day. Let the students pay their price but don't grind their faces in the ground.

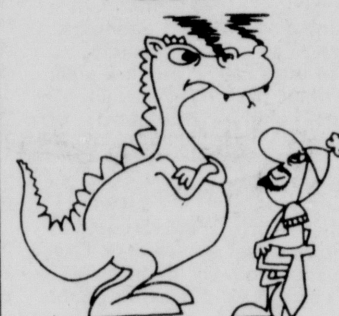

It is a shame that my brother who I know gave 100 per cent effort to all his sports and loyalty to his coach got a slap in the face by a coach who he trusted. My brother and all the rest made a mistake but why act like they are some kind of criminals. No, it has to be insinuated that the boys concentrated on their drinking and fun and due to this Coach Applebaum could never win a game. A few coaches should look up the word loyalty in the dictionary.

As to your high school football game win, Friday night, I will quote your Coach Applebaum as he was quoted in the Sterling Daily Gazette paper after the Dixon win over Ottawa: "It was not a turning point for Dixon, it was just another of Ottawa's losses." Why doesn't this pertain to the win over Kewanee who could not even beat Ottawa?

Dixon High School coaches and athletic director, I want to thank you for forewarning me not to let my children attend the Dixon Public Schools where racial prejudice does not occur but where a prejudice of having a certain name gives them the protection and my children won't have that last name.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

The youth fellowships of the Dixon Church Council's youth council Sunday evening will conduct a systematic door-to-door city-wide campaign to collect donations for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, (UNICEF). This money plus that from more than 11,000 other communities throughout the United States will become a part of the United States contribution to the UN program of assistance to needy children and mothers of the world.

The men's and boys' tennis trophies from the Telegraph sponsored tournament will be given out Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m., at the Telegraph office. The trophies are presently on display in the front window of the Telegraph.

25 YEARS AGO

John Teeter and Esther Barton came home today after being in Valley Forge, Penn., where they received awards from the Freedom Foundation for their school's Americanism program. They were presented with a bronze plaque, a "Freedom Library," and medals.

The 1950 Dixon High School homecoming celebration will get under way Thursday, Nov. 2, with a parade to be staged through the streets of Dixon. Each of the 24 homerooms are expected to have either a car or float decorated, for the parade.

50 YEARS AGO

Last week over 40 boys enjoyed the two hikes that were conducted by the physical director at the YMCA. The boys cooked their own meals and this was done without utensils. Prizes were given for fire building, cooking and for stories written about the hikes.

The annual election of officers of the Dixon Country Club was held last evening at a meeting of the board of directors. Several committees were selected and a complete list will be made public in a few days.

Campaign law cramps GOP

By DON OAKLEY

The political pundits are still mulling over the meaning of New Hampshire's senatorial run-off election in which Democrat John A. Durkin defeated Republican Louis C. Wyman.

As New Hampshire went, not necessarily will the nation go in 1976, of course. But the immediate consensus is that the defeat is a bad omen for the GOP in next year's presidential and congressional races.

The New Hampshire election was more than the first electoral test of the Ford administration, however. It was also the first test of the new federal campaign spending law, and in this respect numerous observers see portents of trouble for the GOP that go far beyond apparent popular dissatisfaction with the President's inability to turn the economy around.

The election dramatically demonstrated the powerful political leverage the new law has given to organized labor, they say. While Durkin, the winner, actually spent about $25,000 less of the over-all campaign ceiling of $220,000 than did Wyman, the loser, he was able to target his spending more effectively because thousands of dollars worth of support contributed by unions was not counted.

For example, union agents working for the Democratic candidate telephoned each of the 45,000 union households in the state several times, mailed literature under cheap bulk rates allowed for nonprofit organizations, distributed absentee ballots and worked house-to-house in some districts on election day.

In addition, the New Hampshire State Labor Council mailed pro-Durkin letters to 47,000 AFL-CIO members, and the heads of several other unions also sent out literature.

Under the campaign spending "reform" law, none of these or other union political activities had to be applied to Durkin's spending limitation because such "in kind" aid is merely the expression of the union's right to communicate with their members.

According to William Baltaks, regional director for the Republican National Committee, the failure to include "in kind" union contributions in the campaign spending law is going to be "a big problem" for the Republicans.

And it is hardly as if the party did not have enough problems already.

Testimony paints J. Edgar Hoover as most feared man in captial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "worked directly under me," the former attorney general said. "I'm not sure he worked directly for me."

So spoke John N. Mitchell, once regarded as the most powerful member of President Richard M. Nixon's Cabinet but, by his own admission, unable to control the man whose name is synonymous with the FBI, which he headed from its creation in 1935 until his death in 1972.

Mitchell's observation last Friday before the Senate intelligence committee drew a laugh, as he intended. But, at the same time, it filled in a portrait of Hoover that has been emerging piece by piece during the committee's hearings on illegal activities of the FBI, CIA and other intelligence agencies.

It is a portrait of a man who, at the peak of his power, was perhaps the most feared man in Washington, an absolute monarch subordinates dared not cross and presidents were reluctant to fire.

Charles Brennan, an FBI agent for 26 years and a high-ranking official for many of those years, said Hoover "at no time really hesitated to tell anybody in town exactly what he felt, including the president."

Brennan, who once had been placed on indefinite probation for disagreeing with Hoover over whether Daniel Ellsberg's father-in-law should be questioned in connection with the Pentagon papers case, gave a rather unflattering portrait of his former boss.

Testifying under oath, Brennan said he believed that Hoover had ordered a halt to all

FBI break-ins and mail-openings in 1966 not because they were illegal, but because their continuing existence might be used to remove him from office.

As Brennan explained it, Hoover became 70 years old in 1965, becoming subject to the government's mandatory retirement rules. Although he managed to maneuver himself out of a forced retirement, Hoover had to fight an annual battle to keep his job, Brennan said.

People in the news

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says the only potential Democratic presidential candidate he could not support is Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

McGovern, the South Dakotan who was the party's unsuccessful presidential candidate in 1972, said he hopes Wallace "forms his own political party. It would help the Democratic nominee."

McGovern spoke at a news conference Monday following an appearance before a United Methodist Church convocation at Duke University.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Haim Herzog, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, has come under fire from his own government and from the powerful American Jewish community.

Herzog, named to his current post just two months ago, accused American Jews in a speech last week of "letting Israel down" over the U.N. move to classify Zionism as a form of racism. He said the American Jewish community was "passive" on the issue.

On Sunday, complaints about Herzog's speech before the influential Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations were aired before Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

One Israeli cabinet minister reportedly has asked Foreign Minister Yigal Allon to summon Herzog home for a discussion, but Allon declined to take any immediate action.

HOUSTON (AP) — The news media need "a little caution and judgment and clear understanding" of issues facing the nation today, especially in the areas of big business and the economy, former Gov. John Connally says.

In a speech before the Texas Association of Broadcasters on Monday, the former U.S. Treasury secretary also criticized media coverage of presidential assassination attempts in California.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Frank Rizzo came out of the hospital in a wheelchair for a political rally and his first public appearance since he broke his hip at an oil refinery fire earlier this month.

He was cheered enthusiastically by more than 2,000 Democrats at a $100-a-plate campaign fund-raising dinner Monday night in which he declared that he expects to win a second term by the biggest margin ever given a candidate in the city.

Rizzo was injured when he collided with a bodyguard as the two were fleeing an explosion at the refinery fire Oct. 12.

The Doctor Says:

Heartburn caused by digestive juice in esophagus

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— Your write-up in the paper gave me an answer to my problem. My doctor said I had a hole, but didn't say any more.

I would get what I thought was heartburn just drinking Sanka coffee and eating a piece of toast in the morning. Now I want you to send me The Health Letter on Hiatal Hernia, number 4-8.

I'm 84 years old and am in good health. I have not had an attack in about a month.

DEAR READER— Many people who have "heartburn" really have a regurgitation of acid digestive juice into the lower esophagus. The stomach is coated with a protective mucus that prevents the acid digestive juice from burning its lining, but the lower esophagus (food tube) where it joins the stomach does not.

I'll send you The Health Letter you asked for. It will give you the information you need on living habits to prevent or minimize the burning pain from reflux of acid digestive juice into the lower esophagus. It will also tell you what you need to do about an eating routine for this problem.

About half of the people over 50 years of age have this problem. Often it doesn't cause symptoms at first or the symptoms are mild enough that they are ignored. Good living habits will help avoid complications later.

DEAR DR. LAMB— Would you please tell me what the symptoms of cancer of the throat, lungs and liver are?

DEAR READER— Apparently many people do not understand that almost any tissue in your body can become a cancer. A cancer is a wild, unorganized growth of cells, which may be thyroid cells, breast cells, liver cells, lung cells, brain cells or any other. The cancer will have some of the cellular characteristics of the normal cells of the organ it started in.

The primary cancer, such as lung cancer, can then spread to other parts of the body and the areas of spread will look much like the original cancer.

The symptoms depend entirely on the type of cancer, where it is located and the amount of spread. A small cancer of the lungs may cause no symptoms at all until it has begun to spread. This is why regular examinations are important. The same may be said of a small, cancerous lump in the breast; other than the lump there are usually no symptoms at first. A small lump in the liver may cause no symptoms. This is unfortunate. If all cancers actually hurt when they started they could be found early and that would lead to life-saving treatment.

So, you are left with signs, such as unexplained weight loss, bleeding from the bowel or female organs, persistent cough, change in bowel habits and change in a persistent hoarse voice. These and other signs are important, but because early cancers often cause no specific symptoms, early detection depends entirely upon regular examinations even in apparently healthy people.
